

QIP JUNE 2025,

The National Quality Standard and Quality Improvement

The National Quality Standard is the standard against which providers self-assess the performance of their service/s in delivering quality education and care, and plan future improvements to their service/s. One result of this process is a Quality Improvement Plan (QIP).

The Education and Care Services National Regulations 2017 (the National Regulations) require approved providers to prepare a Quality Improvement Plan (regulation 55) for each service that:

- includes an assessment by the provider of the quality of the practices of the service against the National Quality Standard
- and the National Regulations; and
- identifies any areas that the provider considers may require improvement; and
- contains a statement of philosophy of the service.

The National Regulations do not prescribe a format for a Quality Improvement Plan. The purpose of this template is to offer a format that supports approved providers to meet their obligations under the National Regulations.

Approved providers also have an obligation (r56) to review and revise the Quality Improvement Plan at least annually, having regard to the National Quality Standard.

A Quality Improvement Plan must be reviewed and/or submitted to the regulatory authority on request. The National Regulations do not prescribe a format for a Quality Improvement Plan.

Approved providers also have an obligation (r56) to review and revise the Quality Improvement Plan at least annually, having regard to the National Quality Standard. A Quality Improvement Plan must be reviewed and/or submitted to the regulatory authority on request.

About the ACECQA Quality Improvement Plan template

The purpose of this template is to offer a planning format that supports approved providers to meet their obligations under the National Regulations.

This template provides quick links to helpful resources for each quality area in the Guide to the National Framework and the ACECQA website.

Exceeding NQS themes guidance

The Exceeding NQS sections provided for each standard should be completed when there is evidence of one or more Exceeding NQS themes demonstrated in the practice at the service.

When the QIP is submitted to the regulatory authority for assessment and rating, an authorised officer will consider the evidence documented and gathered at the assessment visit to determine if the Exceeding NQS themes are being met.

For further information on the three Exceeding themes, including what authorised officers consider when reviewing whether evidence demonstrates a theme, see ACECQA's Exceeding the NQS webpage.

PLAY LEARN CARE DEVELOP

Children begin kindergarten with their own interests, questions, values, and family backgrounds. By respecting this, enduring and equitable relationships between children, their peers and adults can be developed, enabling each child to feel safe, respected, happy and nurtured.

At Ripponlea Kindergarten we create a safe, welcoming, and stimulating learning environment where:

- Equity, inclusion, and diversity are embedded in practice and discrimination against race, gender, disability or age is not tolerated. Children are given every opportunity to succeed, and their diverse circumstances, cultural backgrounds and abilities are respected and valued. Respect for others and self is encouraged at all times
- We are committed to the Child Safe Standards and have zero tolerance for child abuse
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Cultures and Histories are valued and embedded in the curriculum, guided by developing partnerships with the local Bunurong community and our Reconciliation Action Plan
- Children's voices and ideas are listened to and acted on within the community and the curriculum as we recognise that they are competent learners. We have high expectations of what they can achieve
- We endeavour to teach sustainable practices to the children that instil responsibility for their local place and the wider world and a recognition that they are part of an interconnected world where their actions have effects
- We value family and community partnerships at the kindergarten and are led by a parent run Committee of Management. We recognise that children's connections to their community are essential to their sense of belonging
- We believe that PLAY is essential for children's learning and children learn best within an unhurried environment
- We ensure that kinder is FUN, NURTURING and INCLUSIVE.

Quality Area 1: Educational program and practice

This quality area of the National Quality Standard focuses on ensuring that the educational program and practice is stimulating and engaging and enhances children's learning and development. In school age care services, the program nurtures the development of life skills and complements children's experiences, opportunities and relationships at school, at home and in the community.

Additional information and resources about Quality Area 1 are available in the Guide to the National Quality Framework and the ACECQA website.

Quality Improvement Plan for Quality Area 1

Summary of strengths for Quality Area 1

Strengths

- Our statement of philosophy consistently guides pedagogy and teaching decisions. It is developed in consultation with educators, families, and the Committee of Management. It is guided by pedagogy and teaching decisions.
- Pedagogy is guided by an Emergent Program with leading theorists such as Piaget, Vygotsky, Red Ruby Scarlett and Loris Malaguzzi guiding and informing curriculum and planning.
 - Piaget - child centred/how the individual interacts within the environment. Educators provide the experiences and materials that stimulate learning.
 - Vygotsky - Sociocultural. Learning in a social/cultural context. Educators support cognitive learning through social interaction. We scaffold children's learning so they can reach the next level in their learning.
 - Loris Malaguzzi - Guides our "Emergent Curriculum". Educators look at each child's individual needs allowing for individualised programs. The Reggio Emilia approach sees children as agentic and as co constructors of their own lives. They are curious to learn about their world and want to actively participate in and make meaning of it. We see children as capable and competent learners (Aligned to the VEYLDF)
 - Miriam Giugni (aka Red Ruby Scarlett) - inclusion and anti-bias perspectives. Exploring our sense of belonging in the world and our relationships within it.
- Learning intentions and thinking are guided by and directly linked to the Victorian Early Years Learning and Development Framework / Early Years Learning Framework: Belonging, Being, and Becoming V2.0, and pedagogical principles and practices are incorporated into program delivery to promote children's learning.
- We provide a welcoming environment for all children, by greeting children by name and allowing time to talk to parents on arrival.
- A planning cycle has been developed for Ripponlea educators which reflects the practice of continuous observation, analysis, planning and evaluating of learning.
- Learning environments are inclusive and routines take into account integration of children with additional needs. This helps maximise opportunities for role modelling, understanding of differences, acceptance and a sense of belonging.
- Staff have ongoing collaboration with allied support (such as Preschool Field Officers and Community Health providers), NDIS and SRF support in different areas each year.
- Families are involved in curriculum decision making. Parents provide information on children's interest at formal interviews at the beginning of the year. Families also fill in background information at the start of the year. Educators encourage midyear interviews with summative assessments. Transition reports are completed for families and foundation educators. Families and members of the community are strongly encouraged to be involved in the kinder community. Family goals set at the start of the year, informally and again in mid year assessments/parent interviews.

- Educators demonstrate flexibility in program delivery to incorporate children's ideas, cultures, and interests to ensure that experiences are relevant and engaging. Children are regularly encouraged to decide, design and set up their spaces for learning. Educators guide children around personal risks assessments and safety.
 - Educators strive to provide inspiring learning environments that cater for each individual child. The kinder runs an indoor-outdoor program that allows children to choose their own activity and move between indoor and outdoor spaces as they wish.
 - Educators monitor individual children's progress and use the VEYLDF and the most recent EYLF.
 - Educators and co-educators attend a staff planning day each year, which includes training on programming/planning and assessment, to ensure they maintain consistently high standards. Staff also attend other professional development opportunities throughout the year.
 - All educators strive to be practitioners of excellence. Educators engage in reflective practice individually and in meetings every three weeks to ensure enhanced learning outcomes for all children are a priority and constantly reflect on the QIP to ensure goals are set and maintained.
 - The kinder has a weekly Italian program for 3 groups of children.
 - Reflection occurs throughout the program planning cycle as educators respond to children's interest and adapt the program accordingly. This can be seen in fortnightly programs.
 - Specialist program for the Kurrborra Group - music/yoga/sport program. This is temporarily suspended pending budget review based on the Free kinder initiative of the Victorian Government
 - Online Kindyhub platform to support programming, observations and notifications to families.
 - Each family has access to the Kindyhub app for learning stories, photos, reports and communication. Paper copies are made available for families that don't have access to the internet.
- Minor Improvement works due to be completed later in 2024 in the children's toilets will allow children agency over whether they opt for privacy with doors being installed.
- Team teaching approach and team meetings scheduled each term to reflect the effectiveness of planning and the observation process.

Standard 1.2 – Practice: Educators facilitate and extend each child’s learning and development.

Exceeding themes

1. Practice is embedded in service operations

Educators follow the planning cycle.

Educators use the VEYLDF and EYLF: Belonging, Being and Becoming Framework V2.0 to guide practice.

Intentional small and large group time are planned to to meet the needs of individuals/groups.

Spontaneous learning experiences incorporated into the program and documented through Kindyhub or individual observations.

Clear links to the VEYLDF / EYLF / Code of Ethics / UN Convention on the Rights of the Child are recorded and mapped to individual learning through Kindyhub.

Developmental progress of individuals is captured through regular observations and reflected upon. Observations can take the form of photographs (with children's permission), written notes, artwork, and other artefacts.

All educators have access to and are able to use the template on Kindyhub to record observations.

Observations recorded on Kindyhub, children's individual files, and verbal observations are discussed among educators to create individual plans for learning and development.

Children have agency to make decisions about matters that affect them in the program and educators work with them to provide them with the resources to successfully participate in the program. Open-ended resources are used to provide children with multiple ways of realising their intentions.

Children's learning is scaffolded through a play based curriculum and children are given opportunities to drive their own learning with educators offering provocations and encouragement for them to succeed.

2. Practice is informed by critical reflection

Educators regularly reflect on the learning and development of children within the service and identify the supports that they each need to meet their learning goals. Reflection occurs regularly at staff meetings and through informal discussions during the day.

Educators reflect on how they can promote children's agency and have modified aspects of the program to give children a greater say in how they spend their day at the kinder.

Teachers plan together using their knowledge and experience of the children, families and community, sharing ideas, intentional teaching approaches and shared resources.

3. Practice is shaped by meaningful engagement with families, and/or community

Implementation of Kindyhub with links to frameworks enables educators to report on aspects of play against the elements of VEYDLF and EYLF:Belonging, Being and Becoming 2.0V. and share this directly with families.

Transition reports, summative assessments linked to observations on children and the framework shared with families and feedback invited in meetings.

Spontaneous learning experiences incorporated into the program based on needs and recorded and shared with families.

Families are encouraged to offer feedback or stories through the Kindyhub communication app, surveys, informal/formal meetings, parent teacher interviews, emails and in person.

Summary of strengths in practice where there is evidence of Exceeding NQS themes

Notes:

- This Exceeding NQS section is to be completed when there is evidence of one or more of the Exceeding NQS themes demonstrated in the practice at your service.
- Additional information about the Exceeding NQS themes is available on ACECQA's Exceeding the NQS webpage.

Standard 2.1 – Health: Each child’s health and physical activity is supported and promoted.

Exceeding themes
1. Practice is embedded in service operations	Medical Action Plans are implemented if needed and displayed on our “Medical Plan” notice boards to ensure everyone is aware of children who may require additional medical support. Risk/communication plans completed for each child. All staff are First Aid trained. All relief and agency staff are requested to have First Aid training (best practice). Families are notified of contagious diseases through Kindyhub app and signs near the sign-in area. Medical information/medicine is in line with DE policies. All staff trained in an approved Asthma/Anaphylaxis training. Quiet areas offered and re charge time offered to all children. Rest toys or comforters are encouraged, mattress or cushions, couch and relaxation music, meditations, oral stories, quiet activities and alternatives are offered to all children. Explicit teaching around hand washing, posters displayed, individual paper towels provided. Appropriate glove wearing for staff. Following relevant policies and procedures. A pull up change procedure has been developed this year as we have a number of children still in pull ups. This provides guidance to staff on how to change children in a hygienic manner. First aid is easy to access for indoor/outdoor play. First aid bag made up for bush kinder and for visiting bush kinder and school grounds. Children’s medication is taken when off site.

Children make their own cleaning products out of lemons/oranges and vinegar and clean and wipe their own bedding.

Educators supervise handwashing time to ensure proper handwashing guidelines are followed. Educators encourage children to look at the posters and to count to 20 or sing a song before rinsing.

Healthy eating is promoted in the service with posters displaying recommended foods and staff discussions with children at meal times.

The importance of physical activity is promoted. We have access to the school oval and we regularly use it to engage in gross motor activities, such as running and ball play that we don't have the physical space at the kindergarten to engage in.

2. Practice is informed by critical reflection

The example of the pull up change procedure demonstrates how educators reflected on the needs of the children in pull ups and the needs of educators (in the last couple of years we haven't had children in pull ups and this year we started with many).

Educators have reflected on the various physical needs of each group and modified the program to suit each group's needs. The Kurrborra group nearly always access the school oval after lunch and before recharge time as they have children with high needs for physical activity.

During covid we moved many of our activities outside (as required by the Department of Education) and have reflected on how much many of the children prefer to be outside in the fresh air. Activities that we would have typically set up inside before (such as drawing or playdough) are set up just as much outside now as inside.

3. Practice is shaped by meaningful engagement with families, and/or community

Handbooks and website have information about healthy eating, immunisation guidelines and exclusion periods for illness.

Risk assessments completed and shared with educators within the program.

We regularly have incursions that talk to the children about health and safety. Eg. dental visits from Star Health, Water safety, Road safety, Dog safety, healthy eating incursion delivered by caulfield Community Health. Resources from these incursions are shared with families - either pamphlets or links to information on relevant websites,

Parents indicated at the start of the year that they were unsure what to pack in their children's lunch boxes (we do have information in our handbook). We resourced brochures with ideas to share with them and have a healthy lunchbox ideas poster near the sign-in desk.

During Covid the kindergarten organised online sessions for parents to attend that were run by a psychologist and discussed mental health and wellbeing during the pandemic. Families commented on how helpful the sessions were.

Standard 2.2 – Safety: Each child is protected.

Exceeding themes

1. Practice is embedded in service operations

New fence around playground and childproof locks on gates. Additional air lock gate installed in 2024 to prevent children going into outdoor blind spot. External lock is an option once children have arrived. Locks on doors that are easily accessible by children (eg. outside storage, adult toilet)

Staff check outdoor playgrounds and equipment daily.

OHS checks daily as well as weekly and monthly. Reports sent to Committee Members responsible for Maintenance.

Volunteers and visitors sign in and out. WWC checks for volunteers are sighted, checked and recorded if involved in the program. Allied health and professionals WWC checked and recorded. All visitors/volunteers are asked to read a “child safety statement” before signing in.

	All first aid incident, illnesses are documented in line with the National Quality Standards. All staff are aware of requirements for active supervision within the program. Soft fall checked and regularly topped up. Risk assessments are carried out at all off site venues. Each term emergency drills are practiced by each group (including bush kinder) and comments recorded. We are also involved with the whole school emergency evacuation. All staff trained in Child Protection (annually) and are confident in relation to Mandatory Reporting. We have procedures to follow and templates to record conversations for cases of suspected child abuse and for sharing information with entities under the CISS and FVISS. Children are encouraged to speak up when things happen that they don't like and to seek help from educators if they aren't successful in getting their message across. Children know that they will be respectfully listened to and that the kindergarten provides an environment of trust.
2. Practice is informed by critical reflection	Children's wellbeing is regularly discussed and shared with educators. Regular critical reflection in meetings and discussions around supervision. Emergency drill feedback is discussed at staff meetings and reflected on to make changes and improvements to the process. Regular discussions around the child safe standards occur and we have reflected on how we can provide a child safe environment for all children and made changes to reflect this (eg. requiring WWCCs for family members staying as a family helper, visitors needing to acknowledge a code of conduct summary when they sign in). Educators identified the need for training on body safety for themselves and the children in their care after reflecting on an incident that occurred in 2022. It was decided to use SRF money to engage in a program that was carried out in 2023.

3. Practice is shaped by meaningful engagement with families, and/or community	Behaviour management plans for identified children are written in consultation with appropriate educators, agencies and parent/carers and consistently implemented and monitored by educators. Appropriate allied health, preschool field officers are called on as support for families. Parents were invited to attend an online session about body safety as part of our Body Safety Superstars sessions organised through our SRF allocation so they could better understand the intentions of the program and give them the skills to continue the conversations we were having at kinder at home.

Notes:

- This Exceeding NQS section is to be completed when there is evidence of one or more of the Exceeding NQS themes demonstrated in the practice at your service.
- Additional information about the Exceeding NQS themes is available on ACECQA's Exceeding the NQS webpage.

Standard 3.1 – Design: The design of the facilities is appropriate for the operation of a service.

Exceeding themes
1. Practice is embedded in service operations	The outside area of the kindergarten was recently renovated to provide a more inclusive space for children to access. An undercover area was created which allows for children to learn and play outside in all weather. Children have access to a range of resources they can use in their play and can make independent choices about what they want to play with. Safety checks are regularly carried out on all equipment and items removed that are not fit for purpose. Equipment is regularly maintained at working bees eg. decking and wooden furniture and equipment are regularly sanded and oiled. Equipment can be moved and reconfigured to support access by different children (eg. wooden boards placed lower or higher on the climbing frames) Children are able to add a range of loose parts materials to their play. All toys are given a thorough cleaning at least annually or more frequently as required (eg. an imaginative play experience is always washed before being put back into the storeroom). A range of resources such as large inflatable peanut therapy balls, balance boards, bilibo seats provide inclusive gross motor opportunities.

2. Practice is informed by critical reflection

During the outside renovations we reflected on the fact that we wanted children to be able to access equipment by themselves and not always with teachers assistance to take things out, thereby providing the children with agency regarding their choice of what to use in their play.

Educators reflect daily on how children can participate in the physical environment, taking into consideration the weather and any special activities planned for the day that might require higher supervision (such as cooking).

When the landscaping renovations took place, educators requested access to water tanks and a water pump so children could learn further about water conservation in their play.

Educators also requested space for growing vegetables and native plants to be included.

3. Practice is shaped by meaningful engagement with families, and/or community

A new staff member has taken over the OHS role and organised Work Safe to come out and do an audit to help her better understand the role. The findings of the audit have been or are being actioned.

The landscaping renovations were carried out under the supervision of the facilities committee member, who oversaw the project on behalf of the kindergarten. Children were asked what they would like to see in the design (not always practical) and educators were consulted on what they wanted.

2. Practice is informed by critical reflection	Educators participate in ongoing reflection and undertake professional development as needed to support and ensure each child's inclusion and learning in the program. Educators have ongoing discussions on shared learning environments where they can help and meet the changing needs of all children.

3. Practice is shaped by meaningful engagement with families, and/or community	Ongoing communication is maintained with families regarding sustainability and environmental responsibilities. Communication through one on one discussions, emails and small team consultation with other professionals is always available. All feedback and grievances raised by parents are fully heard and reviewed as per our policy in regards to compliments and complaints.

Notes:

- This Exceeding NQS section is to be completed when there is evidence of one or more of the Exceeding NQS themes demonstrated in the practice at your service.
- Additional information about the Exceeding NQS themes is available on ACECQA’s Exceeding the NQS webpage.

Standard 4.1 – Staffing arrangements: Staffing arrangements enhance children’s learning and development.

Exceeding themes
1. Practice is embedded in service operations	Nominated supervisor always has sufficient staff working within the service maintaining ratio at all times. As we moved to mixed age groups in 2023 it was decided to also move to above ratio staffing to meet the increased requirements of 3yo children in terms of toileting and self help skills (understanding that these are not exclusively 3yo needs). This means that we can continue to run an indoor / outdoor program for children to exercise their agency in terms of where they prefer to play and have an additional staff member helping in the bathroom to change children or to engage in other ways with the children. Rosters are developed yearly taking into consideration groups, part time staff and consistency of teachers for children across the day. Educators utilize each other's skills, knowledge and experience every day to guide their educational practices. The majority of educators are longstanding employees. This means that relationships have developed with many of the families who use our service. We have looked after their siblings and have seen some of the current children as babies (or even in utero!), creating a strong sense of belonging to the kinder and meaning educators already have an awareness of family values and practices when children start. In 2023 we have trialled mixed age groups in order to provide 15 hours of funded kindergarten to 3yo children. Educators have had the opportunity to build relationships with these children that will be carried over to next year when they undertake 4yo kinder, thereby enhancing the children’s sense of security and belonging in the kinder environment.

	2026 the service will provide 2 full days for all 3/4year old children. Bush kinder will continue as our families value this service, but children will walk to the Estate during the day. Families to pick up from the Estate. Rosters have been created to allow co-educators time off the floor during their daily sessions to engage in activities as part of their non-contact hours (eg. writing observations, tidying the storeroom, reading the new EYLF) rather than needing to come in on an extra day to complete these activities. This time is covered by one educator on those days, meaning children have time to build a relationship with this staff member (who was the 3yo teacher last year and will be one of their teachers next year). Information about each group is shared during staff meetings , in the staff diary/notebook, or verbally so there is consistency of care. Familiarity with the philosophy of the kindergarten, with policies and procedures, and with educational practice allows educators to provide a consistent approach to the care of the children, creating a secure and stable environment for them to develop and thrive in. All educators promote the rights and best interests of children in their practice. We have developed partnerships with allied health, schools, DE services, other early childhood service providers and families in order to help with this.
2. Practice is informed by critical reflection	Staff meetings, team leader meetings and the communication book are used to gather information and perspectives on a range of issues and topics within the programs. Reflect on PD and share with other educators. As we only received a meeting rating in this area last time we were assessed, educators have particularly reflected on how we can embed the Code of Practice and UN Convention on the Rights of the Child into our practice and relationships with children and families. Educators reflect on these when planning and creating the curriculum, as well as in their relationships within the service. Paramount in our relationships with children is the idea that they have rights that need to be respected and advanced. Educators are continuously reflecting on how they can best promote the rights of the children within their service to exercise their agency in matters that affect them. Children are asked to help guide their own learning by nominating areas they are interested in learning about. We reflected recently that families have the opportunity to have their ideas listened to anonymously in surveys and have canvassed the idea of an anonymous survey for staff.

3. Practice is shaped by meaningful engagement with families, and/or community	Nominated supervisor/Director/ECT keeps families informed on staffing news and any other information in regards to the day to day changes with staff and new staff members. Recognising the current difficulty to find relief staff, the kindergarten has recently joined with the other two community run sessional kindergartens in the City of Glen Eira (Ormond and West Bentleigh) to create a pool of relief staff that we can all draw on as required to provide continuity of care for each service. The thought is that it might be more attractive to people if they knew they could work across three similar services rather than hoping for work with just one.

Standard 4.2 – Professionalism: Management, educators and staff are collaborative, respectful and ethical.

Exceeding themes

1. Practice is embedded in service operations	Interactions between staff and educators are respectful and promote a positive atmosphere within the service. Educators show a willingness to share information or ask for assistance from colleagues and acknowledge the strengths and skills of others. Clear communication with each other ensures educators know what is happening at all times. Professional collaboration and standards align with the kindergarten’s philosophy, policies, and procedures. Educators have a strong knowledge of the way each other work and know how they can support each other when carrying out the curriculum and daily routine.
2. Practice is informed by critical reflection	Educators use professional standards such as Code of Ethics and the Victorian Institute of Teaching Professional Standards. Educators promote discussions and work collaboratively together to critically reflect on practice with a view of shared learning that builds on current strengths and skills. Decisions are underpinned by Professional Standards, recent acknowledged research and practices.
3. Practice is shaped by meaningful engagement with families, and/or community	The kinders approach to professional collaboration and standards is reflected in our unique cultural and community context. We welcome and draw on the voices of current children, families, educators and community. The service is committed to working together to promote a culture of inclusiveness and a sense of belonging for all children, families, community and our First Nation Communities. Teachers who have newly graduated have been given time off work and encouraged to attend Professional Development organised by the Department of Education and have been invited to share what they have learned with other educators.

- Additional information about the Exceeding NQS themes is available on ACECQA’s Exceeding the NQS webpage.

Standard 5.1 – Relationships between educators and children: Respectful and equitable relationships are maintained with each child.

Exceeding themes
1. Practice is embedded in service operations	Each educator is committed to building and maintaining respectful and equitable relationships with all children. All children are included and made to feel secure, confident and seen. Children’s dignity is maintained and upheld, for example children are asked if they can have their photograph taken and their response is listened to and respected. Each year we begin Term 1 with the goal of establishing trusting relationships with the children by building relationships and by helping them to build relationships with us and their peers to ensure they have a sense of belonging to the kindergarten. Educators are aware of the individual needs of each child (eg. who needs rest, who needs help on the toilet etc) and are ready to help them with the appropriate supports Educators are also aware of the individual abilities of each child (eg. who is starting to write their name, who can climb etc) and provide them with opportunities to further develop their skills Educators are participants in the children’s play, taking cues from the children as to their level of involvement and knowing when to intervene to scaffold learning or to let children come up with their own resolutions to problems

	Children with additional needs are encouraged to participate in the program to the level they are able and educators are aware of how to facilitate this participation to ensure positive outcomes for the child and for the group. Educators are aware of the Code of Ethics that guides their behaviour in the workplace and their interactions with children. They believe strongly that children are capable and confident learners, as well as active citizens who have a right to have their voice heard in the kindergarten and wider community. When planning for individual children and the group, educators can choose Code of Ethics descriptors to explain their intentions behind the planning choices. Educators are also guided in their interactions with children by the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child, in particular Article 12 (Children have the right to give their opinions freely on issues that affect them. Adults should listen and take children seriously) and 29 (Children’s education should help them fully develop their personalities, talents and abilities. It should teach them to understand their own rights, and to respect other people’s rights, cultures and differences. It should help them to live peacefully and protect the environment). Again the Convention helps guide us in our relationships with children and in planning for positive outcomes for them. Educators challenge stereotypes to ensure all children can explore their identity in a safe way, understanding that each child is different and their family and society expectations might also be different. Educators provide an anti-bias program where children can feel safe to be who they are and to challenge children (in an age-appropriate and friendly way) to think about why they believe certain things (eg. pink is for girls). Educators are adequately resourced with books and have undertaken professional development to feel confident in supporting children’s rights to be who they want to be. Kimochi toys have been successfully embedded in the program as a tool to discuss emotions and build relationships with individual children.
2. Practice is informed by critical reflection	Educators have undertaken, together or individually, professional development around subjects such as Respectful Relationships, Body safety, Mandatory reporting, Embedding Indigenous perspectives, Supporting challenging behaviour, using Kimochi toys to talk about emotions. Undertaking these sessions has allowed staff to critically reflect on their relationships with children, why they are doing what they are doing and how they can do it better (giving them tools to use). Discussions at staff meetings about individual children allows staff to share their knowledge and contribute ideas to dealing with behaviours or issues. Educators have critically reflected on their attitudes to children and how this impacts their relationships with them. Educators have an image of the child that is strong and capable and we have high expectations about what they can achieve (see philosophy).

	Educators feel confident to address language used by other educators that is inappropriate (eg. good boy, don't get your pretty dress dirty) as it has been discussed and reflected on already at staff meetings. Educators know that it is a friendly reminder, not an admonishment. Critical reflection led us to identify that we didn't have a lot of books that reflected diversity. We were able to use SRF money to purchase a range of books reflecting a range of inclusive themes to further support our relationships with children.
3. Practice is shaped by meaningful engagement with families, and/or community	Department of Education and Ripponlea surveys identified that families strongly agree that the staff have a good relationship with their child/ren, promoting a sense of well being & belonging. Educators build and maintain respectful and equitable relationships with each child in order to enhance their lifelong learning. Educators reflect on the unique culture of each child and build a sense of belonging for all. Families have been invited into the centre to share their culture with the children (increasing the sense of belonging to the kinder of both family member and child and allowing educators to learn more about each child's culture) Communication with families allows educators to maintain the dignity of children (eg. knowing who likes privacy on the toilet, family structure) When children move on to Ripponlea Primary School from the kindergarten there are opportunities to maintain contact (especially when we use the oval or when the grade 3 and 4s read to the children). Building relationships with those children when they were at the kindergarten means they can continue past the kindergarten gate, and the current children can witness positive interactions with school students, hopefully helping to facilitate a smoother transition to school. Building strong relationships with the children ensures that they feel safe when they leave the service to attend bush kinder at Rippon Lea Estate. Having positive interactions with a range of educators helps them to have positive relationships with Rippon Lea Estate gardeners and volunteers.

Notes:

- This Exceeding NQS section is to be completed when there is evidence of one or more of the Exceeding NQS themes demonstrated in the practice at your service.
- Additional information about the Exceeding NQS themes is available on ACECQA's Exceeding the NQS webpage.

Standard 5.2 – Relationships between children: Each child is supported to build and maintain sensitive and responsive relationships.

Exceeding themes
1. Practice is embedded in service operations	Children are always given opportunities to share their abilities with other children eg. if they can do something (eg. put on a sock) and another child can't. They are given the opportunity to be proud of their skills and to show the other child how to do it. Educators effectively role model positive ways of dealing with a variety of situations (eg. how to respond to someone doing something you don't like, how to come into play with other children) so children gain the skills to use them in their interactions with each other. Educators provide intentional and spontaneous moments in a supportive environment for children to practice these skills and to work together respectfully. At group time there are often intentional discussions about kindness and respect, or how to resolve a problem, or there are activities that require teamwork, to help the children learn the skills needed for respectful reciprocal relationships. Children are given opportunities to exercise their agency within the program, allowing them to practice decision making skills and to think about how what they do will affect other children. They are given opportunities to decide where their learning will take them. They have input into what they would like to learn about and play with. Children are encouraged to reflect on how they are part of different communities - the kinder, their family, their neighbourhood, their sports club etc. and this provides opportunities to talk about their relationships in these communities eg. how do they like to be treated within them and how do they treat others, what is considered fair and unfair behaviour

	The kinder has tools for the children to use to manage and negotiate sharing and turn taking, such as sand timers, clipboards and textas to write names in order, and wait cards, which the children know to use or educators can provide them with. The room is arranged in such a way as to provide spaces for one child, two children or more to provide them with opportunities to choose where and how they would like to engage in activities.
2. Practice is informed by critical reflection	There has been a lot of critical reflection about how to support the self regulation ability of children in the service, especially since covid. As mentioned above, educators use Kimochi toys to help children understand their emotions and give names to them. Where educators have identified they require support after reflecting on how they can support particular children, allied health has helped with ideas and resources to use. At our last staff meeting we critically reflected on and debated using the term “friends” as in “we’re all friends here”. Some staff argued that it wasn’t necessarily true as children were capable of choosing their own friends and probably wouldn’t choose to be friends with everyone at the kinder - what, instead, was important was that we treat everybody with respect and kindness. Staff continue to monitor the language they use and to think about its repercussions.
3. Practice is shaped by meaningful engagement with families, and/or community	As part of embedding Indigenous perspectives into the program, we engaged with a local Boon Wurrung man to have incursions with the groups (which was very much interrupted by Covid). Exposing children to a diversity of cultures, and particularly that of the First People of the area we live in, promotes respect for others not the same as us and contributes to the children learning to live harmoniously with others. Families are encouraged to share their behaviour management strategies at home with educators to build an holistic approach to caring for their child. Families are encouraged to make use of allied health where needed, to support behaviours or emotional regulation, with educators able to provide referrals to community services or the NDIS as required. Families are offered the services of a Preschool Field Officer(Connection) if there are teacher/family concerns around development or school readiness.

With family agreement, educators can talk to other early childhood service providers to discuss concerns they may have (or family may have) about aspects of a child's behaviour, to ensure consistency across service practices and to create a fuller picture of why a child might be behaving in a certain way.

Summary of strengths in practice where there is evidence of Exceeding NQS themes

Notes:

- This Exceeding NQS section is to be completed when there is evidence of one or more of the Exceeding NQS themes demonstrated in the practice at your service.
- Additional information about the Exceeding NQS themes is available on ACECQA's Exceeding the NQS webpage.

Standard 6.1 – Supportive relationships with families: Respectful relationships with families are developed and maintained and families are supported in their parenting role.

Exceeding themes
1. Practice is embedded in service operations	Service is committed to ensuring relationships are formed between our service and the community. Our service seeks support from our neighbouring community. Supportive relationships are formed at enrolment and orientations with a particular focus on additional needs, medical conditions, dietary and family based needs.

Families receive termly newsletter updates.

Kindyhub is the main platform for communication and for information on the program, observations, summative assessment and individual learning profiles.

Learning is displayed around the kinder room.

Updated information is on our website.

Staff are able to provide families with individual support, or point them in the direction of support, for a range of issues. This has included toileting, emotional regulation, healthy eating and body image among many other areas of need.

As children progress from 3yo to 4yo kinder they are met by familiar staff. Children and families have the opportunity to build relationships over a two year period.

Building a strong sense of belonging with our children, families and carers.

Provide support with new families. Class representative, committee events that welcome and support belonging.

Annual events such as special person day, Harmony Day, Reconciliation Week, Book Week(School Parade) and Welcoming picnics and End of Year picnics.

Staff meetings/committee meetings are minuted.

Sharing of Transition Statements with feeder schools and families.

Visits to the school library with the grade 3 and 4 children who read to the kindergarten children.

The implementation of support plans from various professionals.

Strong communication with the City of Glen Eira in relation to parent information sessions and events on in the community

2. Practice is informed by critical reflection	When staff have identified areas of need in their relationships with families, they have been mentored or supported to undertake professional development. For example, a newly graduated teacher has been supported to engage in mid-year conversations with families and has undertaken professional development around engaging in difficult conversations with families to ensure respectful and collaborative relationships between the kinder and families. Staff have looked at ways of ensuring vulnerable children are able to participate fully in the program (as per our philosophy). For example the service has provided items such as pull ups and kept food available to provide for childrens' lunch / snacks, and printed out information when families have had no internet access to soften the barriers to participation.
3. Practice is shaped by meaningful engagement with families, and/or community	Department of Education and Ripponlea Kinder Surveys support that staff at the service are friendly to children, families and visitors. These collaborative relationships contribute positively to the children's learning and wellbeing. Survey responses also strongly demonstrate that families are satisfied with communication and opportunities to discuss their child's learning & development. There is a connection between home and kinder through donated items. Promoting community events such as working bees, Bunning bbq, stay and play, parents/carers present sessions on their profession or lives to the children (eg. police officer father has come in) and donations of books for community library and seeds and plants. Partnership with Star Health and Caulfield Community Health - they have presented professional development sessions to staff and will do so for families as well. They provide information we can share with families to support parenting. During covid when families weren't allowed on site at schools, we were able to assist their children to participate in school orientation sessions at Ripponlea Primary, by bringing the children to the sessions for them, thereby ensuring children didn't miss out on this important stage in their journey towards starting school. Ripponlea Primary School is starting to develop their R.A.P. and we will be part of the process with them, meaning we can share knowledge and resources more effectively and build even stronger ties between the kinder and the school and local Boon Wurrung community.

Standard 6.2 – Collaborative partnerships: Collaborative partnerships enhance children’s inclusion, learning and wellbeing.

Exceeding themes
1. Practice is embedded in service operations	Communication with networks within our community. O/T , speech therapists, psychologists, child care services, PSFO, NDIS, Glen Eira Council, Orange Door, Star Health and Caulfield Community Health (to name a few). Sharing of information to feeder schools. School Teachers visit the children's kindergartens. Partnership with Rippon Lea Estate in relation to working on projects. Teddy bears picnic, Botanica Festival, Family Picnics and Project work in relation to our “CareCrow” at the Estate. Educators are aware of children who are seeing allied health professionals and any information shared with the service is shared among educators to provide for a consistency of approach in their relationships with the child. Families are encouraged to share this information with staff so we can all work for the child’s benefit. Educators engage with families and allied health to support children to engage fully in the program. This provides them with a strong understanding of equity, knowing that some children require different supports to engage in the program (eg. fidget toys at group time, needing to go outside to run) and to know when to provide these supports to children to ensure they can participate to their best ability. 3 and 4yo families are offered mid-year summative assessment meetings to discuss the progress of their child and/or provide support where needed. They are offered either face to face or online to ensure the greatest participation of all families.

2. Practice is informed by critical reflection	Our service is committed to supporting diverse families to have a strong sense of belonging to the service. Our policies and practice show a commitment to supporting Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander, members of the LGBTQI community and multicultural families. Staff and the Committee of Management are reflective in our approach to offering an inclusive and non biased curriculum. The service reflects on community events evaluating and discussing the success of events and where improvements can be made. When staff have undertaken professional development around inclusion, respectful relationships etc. they are able to share what they have learned (eg. at staff meetings, informal discussions) and upon discussion and reflection new practices have been embedded in the service (eg. asking children if they want a hug, not assuming they want one)
3. Practice is shaped by meaningful engagement with families, and/or community	The kinder demonstrates a commitment to building and sustaining reciprocal relationships with community groups and to give back to our community. Our service actively engages in forming strong relationships within the community. This is evident when we hold parent information sessions, Harmony Day events, Special Person's Day, Trivia nights, Bingo Nights, Parent Information sessions, Welcome to Country events where families have opportunities to engage with other members of our community. Where children are having difficulties separating at drop off time, families are encouraged to communicate with educators. Various strategies are put in place depending on consultation with the family. Families are kept informed and reassured that their child has settled through phone calls / photos.

Notes:

- This Exceeding NQS section is to be completed when there is evidence of one or more of the Exceeding NQS themes demonstrated in the practice at your service.
- Additional information about the Exceeding NQS themes is available on ACECQA's Exceeding the NQS webpage.

Standard 7.1 – Governance: Governance supports the operation of a quality service.

Exceeding themes
1. Practice is embedded in service operations	The Committee of Management is the Approved Provider. Roles and responsibilities are outlined and members take these roles seriously. Committee of Management and Staff members have monthly meetings. Weekly meetings between Approved Provider and Director. Sub Committee of Management set up for various projects. The Committee of Management reviews the Philosophy annually or where appropriate. The philosophy underpins and guides the practice of all staff in their relations with children, families, committee and the wider community. The philosophy is included in our parent, staff, and committee handbooks. It is on our website and notice boards within the kinder for parents to view. When new staff are inducted, it is included as part of the documentation they are required to read. All parts of the philosophy statement are clearly visible within the service - eg. Our commitment to sustainable practice can be seen in areas such as the use of recycled materials for art, waste monitors, children's books about sustainable practices, linking to the Care for Country commitment in our R.A.P.- using only what we need, not exploiting the land.

	There are clear policies and procedures to guide the running of the service. Staff, committee, and families have input into their creation. Committee member names and contact details are on display at the entrance to the service and they are introduced to all families through the newsletter at the start of the year and at the AGM so families are aware of the governance structure of the kindergarten. All staff and committee members are aware of the need for confidentiality in relation to the children in their care and their families. All staff and committee members sign off on codes of conducts and privacy and confidentiality acknowledgements. As part of this, staff know to keep cupboards with confidential material locked and to store records securely and for the required amount of time. Visitors are required to sign in and on doing so read a code of conduct summary that they acknowledge they will abide by. Anyone engaging with the children is required to have a current Working with Children Check, which is checked online prior to them spending time with the children.
2. Practice is informed by critical reflection	Critical reflection occurs at meetings in relation to Policies reviews, Philosophy, Financial commitments. The Policy review process has undergone many changes in the past years, with a lot of reflection carried out by past committees, to settle on a method that provides the most effective way of reviewing policies and informing families of change (see comments below). For a period during the covid years, the committee critically reflected on what they could ask already overburdened families to contribute and decided to suspend policy review due to the feeling that it would be placing too much stress on families.
3. Practice is shaped by meaningful engagement with families, and/or community	The voluntary Committee of Management is involved in all aspects of the service. These members are made up of our current families and are elected at our annual AGM. Parents and families are invited to be involved in policy reviews, annual surveys, and in Committee Roles. All families have been invited to be part of the policy review process. Policies are updated and sent for review to the C.O.M., all staff, and any families who have indicated they would like to be part of the process, with a period of time to review and make any comments or changes. They are then brought before the C.O.M. to approve. Once this occurs they are sent to families.

	Parent rep’s support families and teachers within each children’s group. Positive feedback from families and our wider Community is fed back to staff and Committee. Committee of Management and families have updated our Constitution in 2021 after feedback from a parent with expertise in that area noticed that it needed updating. Committee of management have created position descriptions to give a personal overview of their roles for people considering joining the committee so potential members can better understand the requirements of each role. They are on the website and in the handbook and given to parents with their enrolment packages. Staff and committee have strong relationships with the 2 other community kindergartens in the City of Glen Eira, where we are able to seek and share advice.

Practice is embedded in service operations	Director, Staff and Committee of Management have made it a priority to build face to face relationships after a long period of off site meetings due to covid. Post covid a strong focus on team building within the organisation. Staff are encouraged to undertake professional development - they are able to take paid time off work and to have courses paid for that meet their current requirements. Staff who have undertaken or are undertaking further study have been/are being mentored in the program and also encouraged to share what they are learning with other staff. Staff meetings and whole staff professional development sessions provide input into the QIP as they identify strengths and areas for continuous improvement (eg. Body Safety Superstars professional development session helped staff identify areas that needed strengthening -eg. templates were created to report suspected child abuse, staff more aware of signs to look out for, clear language established for all staff to use for naming body parts). Staff, families, and committee are aware of the various means of communication provided within the service (eg. verbal, emails, Kindyhub, various opportunities to provide feedback, and are encouraged to have open lines of communication to ensure everyone's voice is heard (this includes children having their voice heard about organisational matters as well (eg. upcoming survey on rollout of 15 hours of 3yo and 30 hours of 4yo kinder). All staff are responsible people at the service and have had opportunities to contribute to the daily running of the service (eg. all co-educators can effectively manage the day to day organisational running of the program if teachers are away). QA officer has been in the role for 3 years and has a background in this area. She has ensured the QIP is regularly updated and changes tracked. She has access to the staff meeting files and regular discussions with the nominated supervisor about the QIP.

2. Practice is informed by critical reflection	Educators have opportunities for input into the organisation's Management. This is reflected in staff minutes. Staff and Committee of Management regularly attend professional learning and training. A mixture of online and in person sessions. Staff appraisals provide opportunities for staff to critically reflect on where they would like to further their skills or knowledge and to demonstrate their strengths and show how these contribute to the education and care of the children and the daily smooth running of the service. Appraisals are carried out bi-annually and staff are encouraged to reflect on their progress throughout the year. All staff have input into the QIP and discuss and decide on areas that need improvement and where we are doing well. These discussions are carried out at staff meetings and also more informally when areas come up in day to day practice
3. Practice is shaped by meaningful engagement with families, and/or community	Building trusting and professional relationships with Ripponlea Primary School has supported strong links to school transition and professional support. Staff photos are displayed and all staff wear name badges to identify who they are so families can be confident in who to approach if they want to discuss something. Annual surveys provide opportunities for families to have input into areas of the running of the service. After each survey is completed a summary of strengths and areas to improve on is created by the QA officer and discussed by staff and committee and fed back into the QIP. The service has participated in professional development with other services - providing opportunities for networking with other educators and sharing of ideas. Our Director / Nominated Supervisor attends regular Leadership meetings, organised by the Department of Education to ensure best practice for the whole of the service.

More space in the office		More private areas, doors/dividers, add a meeting room. Have quiet space as well as social space within existing	BUILDING BLOCKS GRANT FOR 2025 https://www.schoolbuildings.vic.gov.au/building-blocks-grants-improvement Architect Andrew Mellios has started design for this space.

		area (enhance social and allow privacy)	Heads up that the grant requires: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Support from landholder (Dept of Education – Natalie Rose is representative) - Support from CEO of Glen Eira Council - Two building contractor quotes General info from website: The Building Blocks Improvement stream offers grants to help kindergartens refurbish or renovate early childhood buildings and facilities, and purchase information technology to assist the delivery of educational programs and service administration. Funding is designed to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> >renovate or refurbish facilities to improve the quality of learning environments for kindergarten children. > deliver small renovations and refurbishments to early learning facilities. > purchase IT equipment or televisions for administration or learning programs. Projects must be for a kindergarten in Victoria that is, or will be, licensed to provide a funded Three and Four-Year-Old Kindergarten program for 4 years from project completion. More greenery in playground area – possible landscape	Biodiversity	Planting indigenous plants and attracting biodiverse bird and insect life	Victorian Junior Landcare and Biodiversity Grant – around May or June. https://juniorlandcare.org.au/grant/2024-victorian-junior-landcare-and-biodiversity-grants We were not successful in our grant application in 2024 but recommend reapplying in 2025 based on the original application. General feedback on all applications was that more attention needed to be given to the learning outcomes of the project. There is a 2025 parent who works with Gio who may be able to run this project.
Possibility of extending space to the school to increase kindergarten capacity		This is a huge project and might need to sound out the school first. An idea is to possibly move into Grade 1 extra large classroom space.	https://www.schoolbuildings.vic.gov.au/building-blocks-grants-capacity-building
Bush Kinder Grant		We were unsuccessful in 2023 as only new bush kinder projects received grants. This new round is open for four years (from 2024 to 2027) and can only be received once in this window.	https://www.vic.gov.au/bush-kinder-grants-program In 2024, we considered it would be best to apply for this in the year that the bush kinder program is moved to Yulukit Willam.

General questions: how do we continue 3 yo program when we have 30 hours for 4 year olds?

Bendigo Bank has an annual round of grants. They are up to $200,000. They are to be applied through the Elwood Branch (used to be Brighton – which is where we do our banking – but Elwood now does the grants). They mentioned the air con grant is a good one to start with and possibly could apply for a larger grant next year once a relationship is established.
